QUALITY IN A KIRSCHBAUM

Suit stands out all over it--you can see it-- you can feel it.

Many men tolerate clothes of indifferent quality and fit because they think all clothing is alike. Before buying your fall suit let us show you the greatest line of good clothing in the Indian Territory.

Look at it, examine the fine workmanship and you cannot but be convinced that we are warranted in our claim.

CONDITIONS PROPHETIC OF DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Chairman Jesse J. Dunn, when called upon for a forecast of next Tuesday's constitutional convention delegatorial election, made the following statement:

"While I would not say anything to cause our party workers to reduce their campaign activities, it is my candid opinion at this time, on the eve of the election, that the democrats, unless something of an extraordinary character should develop to turn the tide, will elect seventy of the delegates to the constitutional convention. This is my conservative estimate, although we feel practically assured of five more delegates.

"We will surely elect forty to forty-three of the delegates to be selected in Indian Territory, are practically assured of thirty delegates from Oklahoma and will elect both delegates in the Osage nation.

"Such a result may reasonably be expected from the conditions and relative labors of the two great parties in the new state. The democratic party has been thoroughly organized to the utmost precinct of the new state. The campaign committee and its auxiliaries have worked in perfect harmony throughout the campaign and the party goes into the battle of the ballots next Tuesday with a solid front and confidence of victory.

"We have also been unusually favored in the present campaign by the fact that recent developments in national affairs have educated the people to a realization of the positions they suffered at the hands of the great corporations and the other fact that only through the triumph of democracy may they expect real relief.

"On the other hand the republicans have entered the campaign as a forlorn hope, being on the defensive nationally and locally. The party organization in the new state has been divided and there exists schisms in almost every precinct. Desperation has led the party leaders to resort to measures that have been so obviously unfair that they have caused loss instead of gain to the republican cause. Political ambitions on the part of the republican leaders have caused them to block each other at every move and there exists discord all along the line.

"From now until election day various sensational campaign stories may be expected, but this campaign has been fought on issues of vital importance to the voters and in my opinion democracy has won. It will be a victory for and by the people."—Oklahoma.

UNIFORM A JONAH

U. S. Soldiers Suffered Socially Be- cause of Toggery

Leavenworth, Kans., Nov. 2.—Two soldiers of the company K. Eighteenth infantry, stationed at Fort Leavenworth were refused admittance to a skating rink here recently and Captain M.
McFarland, commanding the company who was appealed to by the men, wrote a communication to the military secretary of the army, stating that the proprietor had said that he would admit soldiers only in citizens clothing.

Captain McFarland referred the letter to Lieutenant Colonel William Pauling who endorsed it by stating that "it is very unfortunate and is to be deplored that the uniform of the nation's army should be held in such lack of esteem by individuals in this community and it is to be hoped that some means be found in correction."

Colonel Hall, commanding the service school at the post, in his endorsement, before sending the letter to the military secretary, suggests that if the matter is not remedied the trade of Fort Leavenworth be diverted from the city and that no more troops be sent to the post which is to be enlarged.

TAGS FOR SOLDIERS

All of Uncle Sam's Boys to Be Well Identified

Washington, Nov. 1.—Acting upon the recommendation of Surgeon General O'Riley, Acting Secretary Oliver has ordered that hereafter identification tags of aluminum, the size of a silver half dollar, stamped with the name company regiment, or corps of the wearer, be suspended from the neck of every officer and soldier, underneath the clothing by a cord or string. These badges will be issued gratuitously to enlisted men and at cost prices to officers.

General Barry, acting chief of staff, states that there can be no question about the importance of such badges.

K. C. L. & P. WANTS CHANGE IN BONUS AGREEMENT

The letter published below will be of interest to the Ada public. It will be remembered that the K. C. L. & P.
Railway Co., as the successor of the Canadian Midland, is under contract to build into Ada by Sept. 1, 1907. In return our citizens have subscribed a bonus of $15,000, and have advanced a cash payment of $1,000. It is probable the company, in the revised agreement referred to in the letter, will ask for an extension of time in which they must build. For obviously it would be impossible for the road to be completed to this place by next September. No doubt such a proposition will be submitted as will be agreeable to the citizens. The letter in full follows:

Kansas City, Lawton & Pacific Railway Co.
C. M. Rawlings, Sec. and Treas.
Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 31, 1906.

Mr. Tom Hope, Pres. Ada National Bank, Ada, Ind. Ter. Dear Sir:—In the matter of the bonus contract with your city for our line of railway, we have a letter from our Mr. Hill, Assistant General Manager, in which he urges us to be as expeditious as possible in the commencement of construction on your section of the line.

We assure you, and we hope that you will give this assurance to your people, that we have the most urgent reasons for hastening the work and building the line at the earliest possible date.

We can further say, that whatever advances were made to the movement by your citizens in cash will be fully accounted for and taken care of by the company, at such time as a revision or change shall be made with the approval of your city, in the terms of the bonus agreement.

Without going at length into a discussion of all the measures that have been taken up looking to immediate work we can say to you that all contracts are now being closed and nearly every arrangement has been finished for actual construction.

A revised and amended contract will be submitted to you at an early date with privilege of your city's final action.

We remain

Yours very truly,
C. M. RAWLINGS, Sec.

HELD UP FOR $2,200

In Fear of Being Burned He Revealed This Hidden Treasure

Muskogee, I. T. Nov. 1.—Last night while returning from the barn after feeding his stock H. J. Gobe, a country merchant of Warner, I. T. twenty miles east of this city, was held up by three unknown masked men. Upon refusal to lead them to where he had his money buried he was thrown down, choked nearly into insensibility and his feet saturated with coal oil and threatened to set afire.

He finally consented to take them to the money, as he saw that they would burn him alive. The money was dug up and found to be $2,200 in gold some of it being some of the first money he had ever made.

He gave a reason for burying the gold that he lost a lot of money in a bank failure at Elk City, Ok., some years ago; also in the bank failure at Weverka last year.

He has no idea who the men were as he thought no one knew that he had the money buried.

Doctors Adjourn.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Nov. 1.—The Southwestern Medical Association adjourned yesterday after an interesting session to meet next year at Hot Springs, Ark. The election of officers resulted in a spirited contest. Dr. T.
E. Holland and Dr. C. M. Rosser, of Hot Springs, Ark., and Dallas, Texas, respectively, were nominated for the presidency, and after sharp but good-natured balloting Dr. Rosser was elected. Dr. Rosser was brought to the platform and given a hearty reception, after which he made a speech thanking the convention for the honor.

THIS THRIVING TOWN MUST BE ABANDONED

South McAlester, I. T., Nov. 2.—The decision of Judge W. H. Clayton handed down at Poteau, has spread consternation among the settlers on segregated coal lands, in handing down the decision Judge Clayton announced that he regretted to have to do so, but that under the law and the rules by which the Indian Territory was governed there was no other alternative.

The case was that of the Sans Bois Coal company versus T. F. Mallory et al, the "et al" being some two hundred citizens of Chant City who had built a town on segregated land. The decision means the dispossession of these people of all their property. It is even doubtful whether they will have the right to remove their improvements or to dispose of them in any way whatever.

Chant City is a thriving little town of over one thousand population which has some twenty stores, schools and churches; in fact there is not or was not a happier hamlet in all the country until the decision of Judge Clayton aroused it to the fact that its citizens had no title to their property and were under the eyes of the law nothing but intruders.

The basis of the suit was that the Sans Bois company had violated its character by allowing the citizens to settle on its lease and stood in danger of forfeiting all of its lease if the intruders were not removed by legal process. The citizens will be given a reasonable time to find homes and business sites elsewhere.

"The action of Judge Clayton in the matter," said Judge Henry Shepperd, "is simply an example of the legal status of the coal belt population unless some relief is assured soon. All of them are in the same boat and unless congress does something business will be demoralized in very town on segregated land."

Prof. W. Arthur Stotts will organize a music class, especially for school children from seven years old and up, Sat. Nov. 3rd at 3 p. m. at his studio 109 W. 14th St. Terms very reasonable.

FREEDMEN TRANSFERRED TO CHICKASAW ROLL

Ardmore, I. T., Nov. 2.—In a notice received by Charles von Weise of this city, attorney for Joe and Dillard Perry, he has been informed of the action of the Department of the Interior whereby the said Perrys have been transferred from the roll of Chickasaw freedmen to that of citizens by blood of the Chickasaw nation. These applicants have been contending for their rights as blood Chickasaws for the last ten years and have repeatedly been denied by the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes and the department of the interior, but through persistent efforts on the part of their attorneys have at last been declared citizens by blood of the Chickasaw nation and entitled to all the rights and privileges of such citizens.

This ends one of the hardest legal battles ever waged in the interior department regarding Choctaw-Chickasaw citizenship, and the effects of the present decision will be far-reaching.

as thereby all persons now on the roll as Choctaw or Chickasaw freedmen who can prove their descent from a Choctaw or Chickasaw Indian will be entitled to have their enrollment as freedmen canceled and be enrolled upon the rolls of citizens by blood of said nations, and instead of receiving an allotment appraised at $130.16 they will be entitled to an allotment of, the appraised value of $141.23, besides receiving a full share of all tribal moneys.

Two Killed in Cotton Quarrel

Bristow, I. T. Nov. 2.—Jasper Webb and Lewis were shot and killed by a Mexican in a quarrel over cotton weights two miles from town at six o'clock last afternoon. After shooting them the Mexican beat their heads to a pulp with the gun. He then fled.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.

B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, but in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, first, and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 180 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys, and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was 34 inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural, and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

DAY OF TRIUMPH POSTPONED.

Dudekins Has Yet to Get Even with Witty Chatter.

She had been having fun with poor Dudekins for a long time, and he was wishing to get even with her. His idea took the form of a brilliant conundrum, whose answer Dudekins thought was locked in his manly chest. "I have a conundrum for you, Miss Frances," he said, when he next met her. "Ah!" she responded. "What is it? Who gave it to you?" "I made it up myself!" he asserted, briding somewhat. "Indeed! What is it?" "Why are my clothes like the moon?" She hesitated a moment, and Dudekins began to look triumphant. "You may think," she said, slowly—and Dudekins somehow felt the sand slipping from under him—"it is because they have a man in them, and you have a perfect right to think as you please. But, Mr. Dudekins, opinions differ!"

HANDS RAW WITH ECZEMA.

Suffered for Ten Years—Spread to Body and Limbs—Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

"I had eczema on my hands for ten years. At first it would break out only in winter. Then it finally came to stay. I had three good doctors to do all they could, but none of them did any good. I then used one box of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and was completely cured. My hands were raw all over, inside and out, and the eczema was spreading all over my body and limbs. Before I had used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, together with the Ointment, my sores were nearly healed over, and by the time I had used the third bottle, I was entirely well. I had a good appetite and was fleshier than I ever was. To any one who has any skin or blood disease I would honestly advise them to get the Cuticura Remedies, and get well quicker than all the doctors in the State could cure you. Mrs. M. E. Fallon, Speers Ferry, Va., May 19, 1905."

Japanese Companies Make Money. Shipping companies are profitable in Japan. For the past year ending March 31 last the Nippon Yusen Kaisha wrote off $401,500 for depreciation, $169,000 for insurance, $233,000 for repairs, carried $56,000 to reserve, paid $36,000 for directors' and auditors' fees, gave the managing director a bonus of $30,000, gave employees generally $200,000 in bonuses, paid $825,000 in 15 per cent. dividends, and left $492,000 at credit of profit and loss account.

Sheer white goods, in fact, any fine wash goods when new, owe much of their attractiveness to the way they are laundered, this being done in a manner to enhance their textile beauty. Home laundering would be equally satisfactory if proper attention was given to starching, the first essential being good Starch, which has sufficient strength to stiffen, without thickening the goods. Try Defiance Starch and you will be pleasantly surprised at the improved appearance of your work.

To Give Work to Russian Company. As nothing came of the attempt last year to raise in Balacava bay the British ironclad with her treasure during the Crimean war, the Russian admiralty officials at Sebastopol now propose to intrust the task of bringing up the treasure to a Russian salvage syndicate.

Had New York Sized Up. It was a severe criticism made on New York city by a visitor from Nebraska who said: "Yours is a 'short change' town. In three days I have had seven different persons try to cheat me by returning too little change."

That an article may be good as well as cheap, and give entire satisfaction, is proven by the extraordinary sale of Defiance Starch, each package containing one-third more Starch than can be had of any other brand for the same money.

THE RUNAWAY SUBMARINE

By FRANCIS GARDINER

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"Did you hear that I'd changed the name of the Polly P?" asked Capt. Solomon as I met him at the head of the wharf. "Well, I hev. She's the Submarine now."

"Ye see, it was just about two months ago, when I was going from Friendship, Maine, down to New York! Gen'ally I carry a man before the mast. Then there's Bill Clement, the cook, and me. But on this trip a feller that was going as hand before the mast didn't show up, so there was jest me'n Bill. Howsomever, we got down into the sound all right. It was somers down New London way when the wind jest flatted out, and the fog come down thick."

"I see 'twarn't no use trying to do northern that night, and me'n Bill was both of us pretty nigh tuckered out, being short-handed so. So I sez to Bill: 'You get up for'ard and let go anchor and the Polly P. will stay right here to-night.'"

"'Twas about nine o'clock when I was jest trimming in the main sheet and the rattle of the anchor had jest stopped that I heard Bill let out a screech. It begun like one of them little screeches a woman makes when she sees a mouse, and it kinder swelled up an' bust into a howl like the yell of one of them new-fangled siren whistles on a tugboat. I rightly judged that Bill was scairt, and then I'll confess to you that my hair kind of riz, what there is of it, for jest scraping and slumping alongside the old Polly was the durndest looking thing you ever see."

"The monster was moving kind of slow, and as it went scraping along under the quarter, jest abeam of the cabin winder, the lamplight fell on its broad and shiny back, and all of a sudden I see in that black something which I knew never grew on Jonah's whale or the sea serpent either, 'cause 'twas a good, stout, iron ring-bolt. Naturally when I see that ring-bolt I knew 'twarn't no sea serpent, and at the same time I calated that it was probably somethin' which had got adrift. So I jest grabbed the slack of the main sheet and jumped over the side on to the back of the critter and took two half hitches through that ring."

"Next thing I knew something came swishing through the air and lit, bang, right alongside of me. If I had er hit I shouldn't hev' been telling you this story now. That's the reason we got a new hatchet, 'cause Bill, thinking the sea serpent had got the old man, grabbed the ax we'd been using for the last half dozen years and let her go. I shouted to him to stop firing and to leave in on the sheet, and then we got the thing up alongside and got a look at her."

"And by the Great Jumping Jehookibus! it developed that we'd jest naturally captured a runaway submarine boat—one of the identical kind that the papers say is going to revolutionize the art of naval warfare. Yes, sir, there she was as sound and jest as slick as the day she was built. We jest made her fast and waited for daylight."

"It seemed a long time, but at last morning come and with it there came a breeze that lifted the fog. Fust thing we see, about a mile off, was one of them tramp Dago steamers. She might hev' been a Norway boat, but then, they's all Dagoes anyway, or at least they're all jest about the same. Well, when the folks on that steamer see us there was great ructions over there. We could see 'em running 'round and almost hear 'em jabbering, and then they lowered a boat."

"When I see what was going on it came to me in a flash jest what had happened. I had read in the papers about their building submarines for Rooshy, and it was evident enough that this one was intended to be taken over in that steamer, but the Dagoes, not being much as sailors anyway, had lost the thing."

"Naturally, I jest fell right back on my rights as a free-born American citizen. I hain't been a sailorman for 40 year without knowing international and maritime law, no, sir. Not much, by the Great Jehookibus! I jest sings out to Bill: 'Bill, sez I, 'you hustle down below and get me the glorious Stars and Stripes, and at the same time you bring up my grandfather Green's old musket that's down there.' "I ran down, too, and got my silk hat—one I always carry, 'cause you never know when you're away from home when you may be required to put on full dress, so to speak. So I claps the hat on my head and gets out onto the deck of that submarine and jest fastens the flag of this free and glorious country to a boat hook and sticks it up on the deck."

"When they got near enough I see that there was a chap in the stern who seemed to be of a different cut from most of them Dagoes. I knew he was a Rooshian the minute I set eyes on him. He had the same beard that every one of 'em has, including the czar and all the rest. Of course, I stood ready with the old musket in my hands and the flag of freedom fluttering just above my Sunday hat. I was prepared to repel boarders, but the boat stopped when she was in good hailing distance and the chap in the stern stood up and shouted to me in English."

"'Is ze gentleman,' he says, 'that I has ze honor to address, ze captain of ze schooner?'"

"I turns to the Rooshian and in answer to his question I says briefly: 'I be.' You see at that stage of the game I didn't propose to waste no words and say something I might be sorry for afterward. Thereupon the man in the boat begins again."

"I have ze honor to inform ze captain, he says, 'I have ze honor to inform ze captain (meaning me, you understand) zat ze submarine boat to which ze captain has made fast during ze night is in my charge. I present my compliments to ze captain, and request that he will delivair ze submarine boat to me, its rightful possessor.'"

"Well, now, I said, 'I have the honor to inform you'—by Jehookibus, we can be just as polite down in Friendship, Maine, as any foreigner that ever sailed the Seven Seas—so I sez to him, 'I have the honor to inform you that having found the aforesaid submarine derelick on the high seas, I, Solomon B. Peabbles, of the town of Friendship, in the grand old state of Maine, have legally taken possession of the said derelick, and anybody desiring to prove claims can do so by appearing before the proper authorities in the courts of this great and glorious country.'"

"And then by way of a wind-up I just shouted at him, so that he would know that I knew what I was talking about, 'And God save the United States of America!'"

"Then the man in the boat spoke once more."

"'Would ze Captain Pibbles negotiate as between friends without taking ze matter into ze courts?'"

"That's where them foreign chaps has the advantage of us. 'They're mighty smooth spoken. Of course, he see the game from the start. I met him half-way, but I warn't taking no chances. So I sez to Bill: 'You get aboard this craft and keep the flag a-flyin' while I receive this gent on the Polly P.'"

"When we'd changed places, I sez to the Rooshian: 'Step aboard,' I sez, and he warn't slow about stepping. I showed him into the cabin and we set down. He begun his little chanty the moment he got aboard, but I stopped him. There warn't going to be no northern irregular about them negotiations."

"Before we proceed, I sez, 'I must respectfully remind you that ye didn't let one of your visiting cards float down on the tide.'"

"It would pretty near killed you to hev' seen him then. He bowed and scraped like a dancing master. 'Thousand pardons,' he sez, 'but it is necessary that I reveal ze incognito.'"

"Well, I sez, 'you can keep that if you want to, but I guess ye'd better say who ye be.'"

"He looked at me a minute, right in the eyes, and then he see I meant business and he give in. He kinder grinned and said he was Lieut. Razor-backski, or something similar, and that he had come here to get them submarines which was to be taken to Rooshy in that Dago steamer."

"Well, I ain't telling jest what happened during them negotiations, but there ain't no mortgage on my place down to Friendship an' my girl Polly has got a new planner. When that lieutenant had gone over to the steamer and come back with a bag which chinked when you shook it, I felt so good that I got out a leetle something I had on board for fear me or Bill might be took sick. And then me'n the lieutenant crooked our elbows, once for the president and once for the czar. And after the Rooshian had gone and the submarine had been towed back to the steamer, me'n Bill just took another to the mikado, so's there shouldn't be any ill feeling any where."

"That's why I changed the name of the Polly to Submarine, so's there'd be a sort of record of the affair. To be sure, it's a secret. Me'n Bill, 'n' you 'n' the folks to home, 'n' the Rooshian 's all that knows it. The Rooshian don't count. Them Rooshian sailors are good ones to keep secrets after they get 'round to meet the Japs; couldn't tell a secret if they wanted to. 'Now don't you let on about that secret,' said Cap'n Solomon, but there was a twinkle in his eye when he said it."

LIFE IN THE SMALL TOWN.

Writer Points Out a Few of Its Advantages.

Small towns have their drawbacks. No man need try it in these vigilant little centers to lead a double life. There are faithful, sleepless watchers at each end of the line, with several sentinels along the way, to report on his doings, his failures to do and his misdoings. Everything else failing, his very thoughts are searched. The faithful videttes conclude, from his smallest movement or lack of movement, what must be he in every circumstance meant. On return home after every absence his friends and neighbors cross-examine him as to every detail. He had better tell the truth, because some one will in due course turn up to point out the inaccuracies in a faulty narrative. In large cities very few, if indeed any, of your neighbors will worry much or at length about your incomings or outgoings. Few, if any, outside your own immediate circle of home and business life, care for your doings while away. They are all too busy—too many people moving back and forward to be kept track of.

The small town has not, it is true, the sanatoriums and the professional nurses of city life, nor the freedom of the latter from neighborly vigilance; but it has the big city beaten to a whisper when it comes to the food supply. If Brown, the butcher, for instance, were to kill Smith's lump-jawed cow, or Green's blackleg bull, or Johnson's steer that had been a fall-in' ever since spring, or did he refuse to keep his shop neat and clean, every one in town would be notified of his misdeeds and negligences, and his business soon come to a standstill. He might as well, in fact, quit the town, for the dark deeds of which he had been guilty would be recited, week in and week out, as regularly as the Psalms of David. With each succeeding season his criminality would assume increasing blackness.—Louisville Herald.

WASTE OF NATURAL WEALTH.

We Act as If We Thought Our Resources Were Inexhaustible.

Instances of American wastefulness abound on every hand, but there is no better example than is afforded by the devastation of the forests. Untold millions of board feet of timber are left every year by lumbermen to rot on the ground or in stumps, and quantities almost as vast are destroyed by forest fires.

It was scarcely a decade ago that the forests of the United States were believed to be inexhaustible, but now everybody who knows anything of the subject is aware that they are going so rapidly that their complete extinction is a matter of only a few years.

This fact is realized by the railroads, the great lumbering concerns and other extensive users of timber, and some of them are taking steps to replace the forests already destroyed. But from the planting of the seed to the cutting of the matured tree is a long time to wait—from 20 to 30 years—and meantime where is the country to look for its lumber supply?

The deposits of minerals and metals are going the same way. In an address to the Columbia university graduates in science the other day Dr. James Douglass said that the "monstrous wastefulness" of the mining methods in vogue in this country would soon bring about the exhaustion of "these resources which we have fondly regarded as inexhaustible."—Colorado Springs Gazette.

HABIT MAY SAVE LIVES.

Physician's Hint That May Be Valuable to Parents.

The physician's specialty was children's diseases, and he was lamenting that many little lives was lost because the child did not know how to help itself. "If mothers would only teach their children to swell up their throats in the manner of a bird the little ones would have a trick at their command which might save them endless trouble later. In throat diseases, which often develop into diphtheria, the physician finds a great difficulty in examining the child's throat. The little one has not the slightest idea how to throw its head back and swell the throat up so that the doctor may peer into it satisfactorily. And what's more, the child is afraid that something is going to happen and resists all efforts toward an examination."

"Now, if a child has been taught to imitate a bird he or she walks up to the physician without hesitation and throws back the head in pride to show what it can do. Later, if gargling is prescribed, the child knows just how to go about it, and consequently gets well quick."

In case of threatened pneumonia children are handicapped because they do not know how to raise the mucous. If they have been taught the throat-swelling trick, however, they easily raise the mucus and materially help themselves toward recovery."

Contradiction of Terms.

An Englishman always keen to criticize, was looking at the Flatiron building from the Worth monument.

"Queer people, you Americans, don't you know," he said. "You call that the Flatiron building. It's flat enough, I must admit, but it's stone, don't you know, not iron."—N. Y. Press.

Warm and Cool.

"Many people like their opposites." "That's so; I know some Boston girls who have many warm friends."

It Quenches the Fires.

"Your Hunt's Cure is beyond doubt the most remarkable remedy for skin diseases ever formulated. For eight years I have suffered almost constantly from itching trouble the doctors called Eczema. My skin was on fire, but less than one box of Hunt's Cure quenched that fire."

"Many of my friends have since used it on my recommendation, and it never fails. Where there's an itch rub it on. It does the work—that's all."

Mrs. Helen Whitmore, Clarendon, Ark.

Animals Do with Little Water.

There are some animals which rarely drink; for instance, the llamas, of Patagonia, and certain gazelles of the far east. A number of snakes, lizards and other reptiles live in places devoid of water. A bat of western America inhabits waterless plains. In parts of Lozere, France, there are herds of cows and goats which hardly ever drink and yet produce the milk for Roquefort cheese.

Sheep-Killing Parrot.

The sea is a greenish-brown parrot of New Zealand, which is as dangerous to the sheep of that country as wolves would be. These carnivorous birds fasten themselves on the backs of grazing sheep, tear through wool and skin to the kidney fat, which they devour, leaving the unfortunate animal to perish in agony.

The extraordinary popularity of fine white goods this summer makes the choice of Starch a matter of great importance. Defiance Starch, being free from all injurious chemicals, is the only one which is safe to use on fine fabrics. Its great strength as a stiffener makes half the usual quantity of Starch necessary, with the result of perfect finish, equal to that when the goods were new.

Open Air Work for Women.

Mrs. A. G. Connel operates a ranch in Colorado where wild flowers are collected and pressed for use in souvenirs and menu cards. The work being in the open air, it has proved popular among teachers and other women suffering from nervous troubles, as it gives them a chance to earn a living and to regain their health.

Never Fails.

There is one remedy, and only one I have ever found, to cure without fail such troubles in my family as Eczema, Ringworm, and all others of an itching character. That remedy is Hunt's Cure. We always use it and it never fails.

Adopt American Ideas.

The Russian military authorities are considering the adoption of khaki uniforms, the czar having been especially interested in one recently worn by an American army representative at St. Petersburg. The military authorities are also considering American accoutrements, including web cartridge belts and cavalry saddles, with a view to their adoption.

More Than Society Butterflies.

These are the days when women of national celebrity vie with each other in housewifely accomplishments. Mrs. Philander C. Knox has just dispatched to Mrs. Roosevelt a frkin of butter, made with her own hands, at the Valley Forge farm. Mrs. Roosevelt has sent delicious brandied cherries to her intimates, and to the Episcopal Home for Old People in Washington. Mrs. Bonaparte, wife of the secretary of the navy, has preserved some toothsome mangoes.

WOMEN WHO CHARM

HEALTH IS THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

It Helps Women to Win and Hold Men's Admiration, Respect and Love

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. At the first indication of ill-health, painful or irregular periods, headache or backache, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown, Vice-President Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

"For nine years I dragged through a miserable existence, suffering with inflammation and female weakness and worn out with pain and weariness. I one day noticed a statement by a woman suffering as I was, but who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I determined to try it. At the end of three months I was a different woman. Every one remarked about it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound built up my entire system, cured the trouble, and I felt like a new woman. I am sure it will make every suffering woman strong, well and happy, as it has me."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacements, inflammation or ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, or nervous prostration may be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

NECTARINES.

A Fruit Which is Closely Related to the Peach.

The feature which distinguishes the nectarine from the peach is that it does not have a fuzzy coat. Were it called a smooth peach, such as it really is, the confusion in regard to it would be avoided.

It was formerly supposed that the nectarine was a distinct species and was divided like the peach into free-stone and cling. But the distinction is now known to be incorrect. Nectarines have been raised from peach seeds and peaches from nectarines. It is even possible to originate either from the other by bud variation, which is sufficient to prove that the difference is the result of either chance or science.

Nectarines are cultivated like peaches, but owing to their smooth skin they are more liable to damage from the curculio than is the case with the peach. In California they are grown on a commercial scale, but are insignificant when compared with the peach, the product of the former being less than one-hundredth part that of the latter.

In general, nectarines will grow where peaches do. They are less hardy than the peach and are shorter lived, but this is probably due to the little attention which the development of the fruit has received. Had the same consideration been given it that the peach has received there seems to be no reason why it should not be as hardy.

On the market the nectarine is not as popular as the peach because the varieties have been less highly developed, consequently are inferior. The only feature that recommends it is the smooth skin and this is not sufficient to overcome the disadvantages.

Were it not for the curculio the position of the nectarine might be different. If it were equal to the peach it would have the preference on account of the smooth skin. But so long as the fur coat is a protection it is probable that the peach will be preferred by the grower to the neglect of the nectarine.

The varieties of nectarines are few compared with the peach. Bailey mentions less than a dozen as of importance. The Boston and Pittman Orange are the most commonly recommended.

But there is one use for the nectarine mentioned by Prairie Farmer, which should not be forgotten. The smooth-tongued tree agent finds that it sometimes serves his purpose very well as a trap for the unwary.

HOUSE FOR CURING ONIONS.

Suitable Structure Recommended by Agricultural Department.

The plan shown in the cut represents what has been recommended by the department of agriculture as a good house for the curing of onions, and has been used with success by practical growers. The structure consists of little more than a frame in which shelves are placed from six to ten inches apart. This shed is cheaply made and keeps the onions well separated so that air can reach them from nearly all sides.

Shed for Drying Onions.

ists of little more than a frame in which shelves are placed from six to ten inches apart. This shed is cheaply made and keeps the onions well separated so that air can reach them from nearly all sides.

Pick Off Caterpillar Eggs.

When the trees are bare is the time to hunt the caterpillar eggs and remove them from the branches. If this can be done in December, it should be done at that time, because the days are mild and a boy can climb about the tree tops without being exposed to the cold winds that will interfere with the work later in the winter. The eggs will be found in clusters or rings about the twigs and smaller branches. They are easily recognized, and cutting them out will prevent the appearance of the colonies next spring. The sooner the work is done the more certain will the orchard owner be that the clusters of eggs will not be forgotten. Next spring there will be a great many things to do, and it is very easy not to find time then for work of this kind.

Refrigeration of Fruit in Transport.

At a meeting of refrigerating engineers in New York, it was stated that where apples are shipped from the orchard without cooling and are from three to ten days in transit, large losses occur, especially in the top layers of fruit. The only way to obviate this is to have the fruit thoroughly cooled before it is placed in the car or have the refrigerating arrangements so perfect in the car that the fruit will be cooled uniformly throughout.

Worth All It Costs.

A warm, fresh blackberry made by a skilled cook who knows how to get the crust just right, is very delicious. We think of the seedless apple while picking the berries, says the Farm Journal, and wonder if we will ever have thornless blackberry bushes; and there are more chiggers to the square inch in a blackberry patch than in any other spot on the farm. But we smile over these small annoyances when the berries are in the pie.

Lower Animals in Sickness.

Man might often take from the lower animals a lesson as to the care of himself when ill. All sorts of animals suffering from fever eat little; lie quiet in dark, airy places, and drink quantities of water. When a dog loses his appetite he knows where to find dog grass, which acts as a purgative and emetic. Sheep and cows, when ill, seek certain herbs. Any animal suffering from chronic rheumatism keeps as far as possible from the sun. If a chimpanzee be wounded he has been seen to stop the bleeding by a plaster of chewed-up leaves and grass.

Legally Her Husband's Boss.

Boston has one woman who is legally her husband's boss. She is Mrs. Ellor Carlisle Ripley, one of the assistant superintendents of the public schools of the city and the wife of Principal Fred H. Ripley, of the Longfellow school of Roslindale. Mrs. Ripley draws some $85 a week of the husband's wealth, about $1,500 more per annum than the man who has recently become her "hubby." An assistant superintendent is virtually a supervisor and Mrs. Ripley is in reality her husband's superior and could "fire" him in a minute if she saw fit. Mrs. Ripley is a young woman of pleasing personality.

INTERESTING CONTEST.

Heavy Cost of Unpaid Postage.

One of the most curious contests ever before the public was conducted by many thousand persons under the offer of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., of Battle Creek, Mich., for prizes of 31 boxes of gold and 300 greenbacks to those making the most words out of the letters Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts.

The contest was started in February, 1906, and it was arranged to have the prizes awarded on Apr. 30, 1906.

When the public announcement appeared many persons began to form the words from these letters, sometimes the whole family being occupied evenings, a combination of amusement and education.

After a while the lists began to come in to the Postum Office and before long the volume grew until it required wagons to carry the mail. Many of the contestants were thoughtless enough to send their lists with insufficient postage and for a period it cost the Company from twenty-five to fifty-eight and sixty dollars a day to pay the unpaid postage.

Young ladies, generally those who had graduated from the high school, were employed to examine these lists and count the correct words. Webster's Dictionary was the standard and each list was very carefully corrected except those which fell below 8000 for it soon became clear that nothing below that could win. Some of the lists required the work of a young lady for a solid week on each individual list. The work was done very carefully and accurately but the Company had no idea, at the time the offer was made, that the people would respond so generally and they were compelled to fill every available space in the offices with these young lady examiners, and notwithstanding they worked steadily, it was impossible to complete the examination until Sept. 29, over six months after the prizes should have been awarded.

This delay caused a great many inquiries and naturally created some dissatisfaction. It has been thought best to make this report in practically all of the newspapers in the United States and many of the magazines in order to make clear to the people the conditions of the contest.

Many lists contained enormous numbers of words which, under the rules, had to be eliminated "Pegger" would count "Peggers" would not. Some lists contained over 50,000 words, the great majority of which were cut out. The largest lists were checked over two and in some cases three times to insure accuracy.

The $100,000 gold prize was won by L. D. Reese, 1227-15th St., Denver, Colo., with 9941 correct words. The highest $10,000 gold prize went to S. K. Fraser, Lincoln, Pa., with 9921 correct words.

A complete list of the 331 winners with their home addresses will be sent to any contestant enquiring on a postal card.

Be sure and give name and address clearly.

This contest has cost the Co. many thousand dollars, and probably has not been a profitable advertisement, nevertheless perhaps some who had never before tried Grape-Nuts food have been interested in the contest, and from trial of the food have been shown its wonderful rebuilding powers.

It teaches in a practicable manner that scientifically gathered food elements can be selected from the field grains, which nature will use for rebuilding the nerve centres and brain in a way that is unmistakable to users of Grape-Nuts.

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists, and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.

TWO REPUBLICAN PLANKS

An interesting specimen of republican platform demands is reproduced below. The republicans of the second constitutional convention district, in Beaver county, in convention assembled, adopted a platform of 15 sections. Sections 13 and 14 read as follows:

"13. We favor a compulsory school and separate school for whites, blacks and Indians.

"14. We favor a separate coach law, and separate railroad waiting room for each of the races."

A strict interpretation of clause 13 as written in this platform will readily show that the republicans in this constitutional district favor putting the Indians with the negroes in a separate school from the whites.

The next law regarding a coach law and railroad waiting room cannot be interpreted in any other way than to mean that the republicans of that district are in favor of putting the Indians with the negroes not only in schools but in coaches and waiting rooms as well.

What do you self respecting Indians think of this. Do you feel like voting for a republican candidate now?

ON THE EVE OF THE BATTLE

Democrats of the 87th district, this is the eve of the great battle between the hosts of democracy and the cohorts of republicanism. This is the first real trial of party strength in the new commonwealth. Next Tuesday it is to be decided whether Oklahoma shall be republican or shall be a great democratic state like its illustrious neighbors, Texas, Arkansas and Missouri. Are you ready for the battle of ballots?

Next Tuesday will be a memorable day in the history of the future state. On that day we cast our virgin vote as freemen, stepping fairly upon the threshold of sovereign citizenship. It deserves to be observed by you as a holiday, even though it entail business sacrifice. A holiday not of idleness, but one of devotion to the patriot's duty, one of service to the sacred cause of good government in this fair land of opportunity.

It is no small or perfunctory matter, that of voting next Tuesday; it is imperative upon you as a patriot. Fellow democrat, your failure to vote might cause the defeat of your nominee for delegate; his defeat might give the republican party control of the constitutional convention. In that event your organic law, the state's foundation—and foundations once laid and built upon, are hard to change—will be dictated by the people's arch enemy, the vast corporate interests who under republican connivance and protection have been plundering the people of these two territories for lo! these many years. These pirates of plutocracy, these special interests plunder the people only by means of special privileges and immunities secured by corrupting legislative bodies, judges and other public officials. In the past the piracy has been easy in the territories under republican regime. There has grown up such a mutual-ity of interests that naturally the pirates are hoping for, indeed are bending every unscrupulous effort for, a continuance of republican control. So it becomes of prime importance for them that the republicans have a majority in the constitutional convention.

Now do you know, fellow democrats, what the enemy is chiefly depending upon to secure this majority? Simply the STAY AT HOME democrats. He knows the republicans will go out and vote and he believes lots of democrats will not take the trouble.

You can't afford to miss this election. You know the democratic party is the only present hope for the people. It is the party which early in this campaign took a bold, unequivocal stand for the measures most needed in the new state; notable among them being the initiative, referendum and right of recall, a commission to regulate railroads and other corporations, and separate schools and coaches for negroes. The democracy of the whole state is a unit in demanding these things. On the other hand, the republicans have put these demands in their platform only in a portion of the districts, and then only when driven to it by political situations. There is every indication that the republicans are insincere when they advocate these reform measures. Else why is every republican newspaper boosting for constitutional delegate this Henry Asp of Guthrie, the notorious railroad attorney and lobbyist? If there's a republican majority in the convention the railroads and allied interests will write the constitution to suit themselves.

Again, do you want negro equality in this state? Do you believe the republicans would enact a separate school and coach law, and thereby alienate the support of the negroes who constitute always a large element of the party's strength?

The nation over the democratic party stands firmly pledged to the principles of the initiative and referendum, the rule of the people. Republicans either repudiate the principle or evade the issue. The result of this first election in the new state will be watched from afar; it will be pivotal in its influence on the nation over; it will have a strong moral effect upon national democratic success, upon the prospects of William J. Bryan for the presidency in 1908.

Democrats, you chose as your candidate for delegate Carlton Weaver—chose him in a primary election participated in by over 1,600 voters of the district. Opposed to him is the republican candidate selected by a convention of 24 men, a fourth of them negroes. Which of them is logically the candidate of the people?

You know the democratic party is the only dependence to build a constitution for the people. You know your nominee is a man in every way qualified and in every way to be trusted. Will you STAY AT HOME Tuesday and risk the defeat of the democratic party?

DON'T DO IT. IF THE REPUBLICAN ELECTION OFFICIALS HAVE PLACED THE VOTING BOX AWAY OFF FROM YOU, FOOL THEM A TRIP, HIT UP AND GO ANYHOW. AND GO EARLY AND TAKE YOUR NEIGHBOR, AND VOTE EARLY, AND DEVOTE A DAY TO THE SUCCESS OF YOUR PARTY.

In some of the districts the republicans have a pretty fair platform. But that's only when they have stolen the best planks from the democratic platform.

ELECTION RETURNS BY WIRE.

A special wire will be installed in the office of the Ada News for the purpose of getting the election returns Tuesday night. Returns will be received not only from the various boxes in this delegate district, but also fresh from all districts in the new state and from all the forty-two states in which more or less important elections will be held. The public not only of Ada but of all the surrounding country is cordially invited to come to the News office Tuesday night and hear the election news hot off the wire.

Found Dead on the Streets

A young man was found dead on the streets of Baty Rogue, supposed to have died from a congestive chill, which could have been prevented by the timely use of Dr. Mendenhall's Chill & Fever Cure. For sale by C. M. Ramsey

A Year of Blood.

The year 1903 will long be remembered in the home of F. N. Tackett, of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood, which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tackett's lungs that death seemed very near. He writes: "Severe bleeding from the lungs and a frightful cough had brought me at death's door, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, with the astonishing result that after taking four bottles I was completely restored and as time has proven permanently cured." Guaranteed for sore lungs, coughs and colds, at F. Z. Holley and G. M. Ramsey's drug stores. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

The best treatment for indigestion and troubles of the stomach is to rest the stomach. It can be rested by a good digestant. Kodol puts the stomach in shape to satisfactorily perform its functions. Good for indigestion, sour stomach, flatulence, palpitation of the heart and dyspepsia. Kodol is made in strict conformity with the National pure food and drug law. Sold by Crescent drug store, F. Z. Holley, Prop.

Famous Strike Breakers.

The most famous strike breakers in the land are Dr. King's New Life Pills. When liver and bowels go on strike, they quickly settle the trouble, and the purifying work goes right on. Best cure for constipation, headache and dizziness. 25c at F. Z. Holley and G. M. Ramsey, druggists.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach. Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Had A Close Call.

"A dangerous surgical operation, involving the removal of a malignant ulcer, as large as my hand, from my daughter's hip, was prevented by the application of Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says A. C. Stickle, of Miletus, W. Va. "Persistent use of the Salve completely cured it." Cures cuts, burns and injuries. 25c at F. Z. Holley and G. M. Ramsey, druggists.

Made Happy for Life.

Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent at St. Albans, W. Va., when his little daughter was restored from the dreadful complaint he names. He says: "My little daughter had St. Vitus' Dance, which yielded to no treatment but grew steadily worse until as a last resort we tried Eleceric Bitters; and I rejoice three bottles effected a complete cure." Quick, sure cure for nervous complaints, general debility, female weaknesses, impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by F. Z. Holley and G. M. Ramsey's drug stores. Price 50c.

To the Voters of District No. 87:

Notice is hereby given that in Constitutional delegate District No. 87, the Republican, Democratic and Socialist parties have nominated the below named persons respectively as candidates for the office for delegate to form a constitutional convention for the proposed state of Oklahoma, and that the names of said candidates will appear upon the official ballots under the title and device and in the order, as follows:

In order to vote any one of the foregoing tickets the voter should enter the election room and announce his name to the two clerks of election, one of whom will deliver to him one ballot, and the other will hand him a stamp. The voter shall then without leaving the room, enter an unoccupied booth and indicate the candidate for whom he desires to vote by stamping a cross in the circle above, or in the square immediately to the left of such candidate's name, after which and before leaving the booth, he shall fold his ballot so that no part of the printed matter thereon will be exposed, and shall return the stamp to the clerk from whom he received it and deliver the ballot to the chairman, who shall forthwith, in the presence of the voter, judges of election and watchers deposit the same in the ballot box. Any other mark than the cross-mark for the purpose of voting, or any erasure made on the ballot, makes it void and it can not be counted.

ANTI-LYNCH BUREAU

Negroes Form Protective Organization For Race

Guthrie Ok., Nov. 2.—Charles H. Filson, Territorial secretary has granted a charter to the state Anti-Lynch Bureau, backed by leading negroes of the two territories, the latest protective organization among the people of that race.

It has headquarters here and is capitalized at $25,000. Its object is stated to be to prevent the crimes which lead to and cause lynchings. The incorporators include W. H. Twine of Muskogee G. W. Chadwick, E. L. Saddler, T. D. Jackson and D. G. Franklin of Guthrie, S. M. Dillard of Ardmore, S. D. Russell of Langston.

Newspaper Change

Muskogee, I. T. Nov. 2.—The Evening Times-Democrat, the official democratic paper in this city, has recently changed hands, alleged to have been sold out by the majority stockholders to C. W. Raymond, independent republican, and left the democratic party in the middle of the campaign for delegates to the constitutional convention without an organ. The democrats raised $25,000 today and will start an afternoon paper, the first issue to appear Monday. The name of the paper will be the Evening News.

TEXAS VS OKLAHOMA

Intercollegiate Football Game At Oklahoma City

Norman, Okla., Nov. 2.—The news that the Texas University football team lost to Vanderbilt by a score of 45 to 0 has raised the hopes of the followers of the Sooners and it is thought they will be able to secure a clean victory this year.

While the team won last year every one has always wished that it had been by a touchdown or field goal, instead of a safety. Reports of the Vanderbilt game says that Texas has the heaviest team that they have ever had, but the Oklahoma enthusiasts believe that the light but speedy team which Owens has developed this year will be able to come out on top when they meet at Oklahoma City today.

Queer Foods of New York Epicures.

History tells us that Confucius liked sharks' fins and sea slugs and birds' nests. Well and good. If a man with an intellect like that of the great Chinese philosopher found these, to us, unusual foods, palatable, they must be worth trying. Then there are the preserved grape leaves, the pickled squash, and the dried okra of the Syrians. These people of the orient were civilized long before America was even thought of being discovered, so there is no reason, argues the epicure, why their knowledge and choice of foods should not be well worth investigating. The other countries have their special delicacies which, if they are sought out, appeal to the universal taste and form an agreeable and inexpensive addition to the daily menu of the average mortal who must eat. Bear steak from the west, kangaroo tails pickled, which come from Australia; preserved goldfish from the Nile; canned abalone from California and dried goose from Sweden are only a few of the queer foods kept for sale in the New York markets and sold in quantities every day. Until recently, says Harriet Quimby in Leslie's Weekly, people who relished snails were regarded with sentiments which savored of disgust, but that notion has changed, and at the present time that delicacy can be procured in almost any of the first-class hotels and cafes in New York. In order to meet the growing demand, one of the largest caterers in the city imports 25,000 snails every week from Brittany, where the best snails are grown.

The Alhambra Crumbling.

Since more and more American tourists visit Spain each year, the news that the Alhambra, the Mecca of all pilgrims to that country, is in greater danger of total destruction than ever before will arouse widespread interest in this country. The government contributes 45,000 pesetas a year for its preservation, but that sum has proved quite inadequate for present urgent needs, and one cannot help wishing therefore, that some wealthy American art patron might immortalize himself by coming to the rescue. That the Alhambra has survived to this day is in itself a marvel. During its five centuries of existence it has been subjected to severe trials. Shattered, at one time, by an explosion, and shaken by earthquakes, it has at other times sunk so low as to be a habitation of smugglers, and even a stable for French army horses. The present danger, explains the New York Post, lies in the fact that the foundations are being undermined by water from the old ruined conduits. Not only are the government appropriations insufficient to meet this condition, but the situation is complicated by a quarrel among the three directors. This has resulted in the resignation, after 35 years of service of the eminent expert in oriental architecture, Senor Contreras. He has restored many of the tiles, as well as the figures and colors and the other mural decorations, thus giving a fair idea of what the Moorish palace was in the days of its glory.

Misuse of the Telephone.

Calling a husband up maliciously on the telephone, day and night, has been ruled in Massachusetts not to be an actionable misdemeanor in a wife. The judge added, however, by way of gratuitous observation, this: "I think that one having a telephone in his house could enjoin a person from continuously ringing him up day and night upon unimportant matters which he had no right to do, to the loss of sleep and rest to the occupant and to his great annoyance." With new methods of communication come new subjects for lawyers and the rest of us to discuss. Take rural free delivery, for instance. With the telephone, says Collier's, this is changing the most important aspects of country life. Some persons oppose it because, among other reasons, it costs money. Such persons would probably oppose the mail service if it were a newer question. The rural free delivery, like every means of intercourse, will not be set back, but rather be a larger factor constantly in our civilization. Mr. Olmsted, the great landscape gardener who did so much to ruralize the cities, said that a still more important duty was to urbanize the country, making it more attractive and more nourishing to the mind than the tenements of a slum.

"Silent" Smith, who has just been married, was a great catch from the standpoint of most women. Aside from possessing about $43,000,000, he has the reputation of being able to sit and listen for hours without saying a word.

Sir James Crichton-Browne says that the rapid locomotion supplied by automobiles, "blinds its victim to natural beauty." The impression here was that it tosses them higher than

A DOUBLE SERVICE LINE.

The Making of a Combination Telegraph and Telephone Line.

The accompanying diagram shows a system which I recently installed in Kansas for simultaneous telegraphy and telephony and which is giving as good results as could be had were they entirely separate, says a Kansas correspondent of Popular Mechanics. On account of its simplicity it can be made by anyone for less than the cost of any standard telephone made.

A word explaining its operation may prove useful. When receiver is on the hook in its normal position, the pushing of the button completes the circuit of six cells through an ordinary buzzer, primary of induction coil back to the battery, thus giving an interrupted direct current through this circuit and generating an induced alternating current in the secondary of the induction coil which passes out over the line, actuating the diaphragms of all receivers and vibrating them in unison with the buzzer of the ringing telephone. Receivers in this way act as "howlers" in addition to their usual function.

The condenser of course prevents the Morse current from reaching or working through the telephone to ground. The impedance, or retarding coil, may be made by using one of the coils out of an ordinary Morse relay (150 ohms), as its resistance is 75 ohms. Where Morse sets come between telephones on the line, both key and relay of the set should be completely bridged across with a condenser of small capacity. Where it is possible to use two telegraph wires and make a metallic circuit, a one microfarad condenser on each side of telephone will serve the purpose of the two micro-farad condenser shown in diagram.

Huge Electric Rotating Tower Crane

The Rotating Tower Crane.

For loading such heavy articles as guns, boilers, machines, etc., the Dublin port and docks board has installed a powerful rotating tower crane, operated by electricity and dealing with normal working loads of 100 tons. The part that rotates consists of a vertical crane post resting on a cylindrical bearing and supporting a horizontal braced truss. The upper horizontal thrust is borne by means of rollers on a ring bearing fixed to the trestle, surrounding the crane post.

On the short arm of the horizontal truss are located the counterweight and the machine room, the latter housing the machinery for hoisting and for traversing the hoisting crab, which which runs on the long arm of the truss between the two side girders and is provided with auxiliary hoisting gear of 20 tons working capacity and 30 tons maximum carrying capacity. The motors for operating the hoists are of 60 and 40 british horsepower and the one for traveling the crab is of 30 british horsepower. The slewing mechanism is located on a platform at the junction of the crane post and the truss, says the Electrical Review, London, and is operated by a 15 british horsepower motor. On an upper platform above the slewing gear is placed the driver's house, containing the controllers and having a good view of the working field of the crane.

The greatest height of the lead hook of the crane above the quay wall is 70 feet; hoisting height, 100 feet; radius for 20 tons, 80 feet; for 160 tons, 75 feet. When hoisting 150 tons the working speed is three feet per minute, and when hoisting 20 tons, 20 feet per minute; speed of traveler, 28 feet; eight minutes are required for a complete rotation.

New Use for Electricity.

The latest, and, it will be thought by many, one of the best uses to which electricity has been put is the destruction of the mosquito. Maurice Chauvin, of Paris, is the man who has thought of electrocuting this most obnoxious disturber of summer peace, says The Reader. He has devised and patented an apparatus with a cylindrical lantern with two rings, suspended one above the other, and joined by parallel and vertical chains. These are connected with the source of electricity, which may be provided by a small accumulator in such a fashion that each of these little chains is always alive. In the center is some sort of a lamp that attracts those ardent lovers of luminosity, the mosquitoes and gnats. They touch the chains, and that instant is fatal to them. They are neatly "short-circuited," and they buzz no more. They even forget what they meant by all their buzzing, or what occult reason they had for seeking the luminary. They are dead and done for. This apparatus can be placed in a room, and the proper owner of the chamber is insured a comfortable night.

Portland Grounding Wires.

In Portland, Ore., work is about to begin on tearing up the streets to put electric light and power, telegraph and telephone wires underground. The corporations interested will spend $500,000 carrying out the plans.

"Riding the Goat" Electrically.

The published report of the use of electric appliances in certain college initiations moves the Western Electrician to condemn such proceedings unreservedly. It says editorially: "Applied electricity has many uses, and they are important, but when it comes to using the electric current as a means of hazing or as an initiatory performance at a secret society meeting, a foolish step has been taken, and it is not improbable that serious results may ensue. Among some of the more unrestrained students belonging to the upper class of one of our technical institutions recently it was felt that the old and tried methods of hazing were hardly adequate to the occasion, so several under-graduates were subjected to strong electric currents until they became exhausted. Such hazardous tomfoolery as this should be suppressed."

A Glass Bridge.

Colorado is about to astonish the world with a glass bridge. Across the gorge of the wonderful Grand Canyon of the Arkansas river, near Canyon City, a suspension bridge has been built more than 2,600 feet above the surface of the river. Its floor is of plate glass, so that tourists may look down into the wonderful gorge, the deepest in the Rockies. The floor of the bridge is about a mile and a half above sea-level. An electric railway from Canyon City will carry travelers to the edge of the gorge.

SADDEST PLACE in NEW YORK

IT IS BEYOND THE "DOOR THAT IS NEVER CLOSED" IN THE FOUNDLING ASYLUM, WHERE EVERY DAY HAS ITS TRAGEDIES

THE OLD STORY OF HUMAN FRAILTY

New York.—The saddest place in the city.

Do you know where it is? Do you think that some time, perhaps, in your life you have found it?

Can you shut your eyes to the present. New York man or woman, and look back to that day when you found some one you loved down in the silent morgue, and say, yes, you know the place well—the saddest place in New York? Or remember one corner in some green cemetery where all your love lies buried, and say, no, the place is here? Or look at some deserted home, where ghosts of a lost faith walk always, and say, no, this is the saddest place of all, for here there is no hope?

But it is not so. The saddest place in all New York is not a spot determined by the personal, individual loss of mere life or love or faith. If it were, every grave would claim the title and every broken heart dispute it.

It is one little room in a large building on Sixty-eighth street. Two sweeping rows of broad stone steps lead from the street to the wide doors of the main entrance. These doors are always locked. But under the stone staircase, right in the center, opening directly on the street, is a little low door that is always open, and it is the entrance to the saddest place in New York.

It is framed in clinging ivy vines, the little low door. Above it, on each side of the stone steps, droop weeping willow trees. Higher still there stands in a niche the statue of a woman holding a child close to her breast. And every woman who seeks the little low door under the ivy vines holds cradle, went quietly out of the door and down the street. And she did not come back.

After she went out of sight, the Sister of Charity who sits in the little office next to the room with the cradle went in and took the baby in her arms. It was well-dressed and about four weeks old. The sister touched a bell, and presently a nurse came and took the baby away to the reception ward. That was all. It was a common case. Only one more mother who had deserted her child; only one more baby foundling in Greater New York.

The sister smoothed the coverlet on the cradle, shook up the pillow, and left it ready for the next one.

"Sometimes we have several in a day," she said. "And other days, none at all. But every year from a thousand to fifteen hundred are left with us. We always leave the baby in the cradle for a few minutes, because some of the mothers change their minds. They will wait for hours, trying to decide, sometimes, holding their babies, nursing them, and crying over them. And at last they will leave them, as this one did, and go away. But sometimes, before they get as far as the corner they will come running back and catch the baby up out of the cradle and hurry away with it. As long as the baby is still in the cradle it is not too late."

"Too Late." Not too late as long as the baby is still in the cradle! But afterward, once the baby has been taken from the little room, has been received and recorded and perhaps in a few weeks adopted, it is too late. Many a mother has come back by stealth to willing, we take them here for a month or three months. We keep a record of each foundling, and of the family it is adopted by, but we do not tell the mothers where they are, if they come back and ask. It would not be fair to the adopted parents. And they find good homes, these little waifs. There is one family, one of the wealthiest and best known socially in New York, whose oldest son and heir is a waif from the Foundlings'. No, I cannot give the name. It is years ago. One winter night the family physician sent here for a baby. He only wanted the loan of it for a few weeks, as the wife had given birth to her first child and it had died. She was dangerously ill and delirious, and they were afraid unless she had a child to nurse and love the shock would kill her. So we picked out the littlest baby of all, a pretty boy hardly a week old, and he was taken away in a carriage to one of the handsomest homes uptown. Even for a loaned baby it must have been a pleasant experience. For three or four weeks he was treated just exactly as the baby would have been that died, and the mother knew no difference. Then, when she was strong enough, they told her the truth. But the borrowed baby never came back. "In those weeks of suffering, when the clasp of its little hands and the touch of its yearning lips had been all that had held her from death, she had grown to love it as her own, and she kept it. He is a boy at college now, and will never know that he was a foundling waif."

There was a step in the little room, and the sister glanced out. A plump, rosy-cheeked girl of about 19 stood a child close to her breast, but when she comes away her arms are empty. For this is the New York Foundling Asylum.

Anyone may enter through the doorway. There is no one to stop you or question you as to why you have come. You stand in a small, square room. There is no carpet on the floor, no pictures on the walls. Two settees stand, one on each side of the room. And between them is a little white cradle. It is very dainty and inviting, that cradle. The tiny blanket and coverlet are soft and spotted, the little baby pillow has a lace-edged case, and there is a pretty muslin canopy draped above it in bassinet fashion.

But the room is not empty. Pacing up and down the floor is a woman, hardly past girlhood. She does not look very strong. Her long brown chiffon veil is thrown back from her face. It is a sweet face, the features well cut and refined, but white and wet with tears. Close in her arms, so close that the little face is pressed next her cheek, she holds a baby, hushing it to sleep.

Last Look at Her Child.

After awhile she lays it down gently in the little white cradle and stops to listen, but there is no sound, and the door still stands open. She may come or go as she pleases. And, standing a minute over the sleeping baby, she looks into its face for the last time. It is her baby. She has given it birth and nurtured it. Its little body is healthy and flushed with the rose tint of palpitant life. It is not as though death had given her no choice in the matter. She has absolute choice. Either she may take the baby again to her breast and face the world with it, or else she may go through the little low door and leave it forever behind her.

Standing in the corridor beyond the little room, I watched this mother. She stood rocking the cradle for about five minutes. Her sobbing ceased. Once she stooped and kissed the little face on the pillow. Then, suddenly, she let the brown chiffon veil fall over her face and, turning from the walk along the street and steal a look at the low doorway under the stone steps when it was too late, and the cradle was as empty as her arms, writes Izola Forrester, in the New York World.

But most of them never come back. It is not cruelty nor hardness of heart. It is bitter necessity and the way of the world that lead most of them to that door. Sometimes it is cowardice. When the baby wears dainty, costly garments, when the name pinned on its breast is written in a hand showing education and breeding, and a roll of bills is found also in the cradle, then the woman who left her child as a foundling is a coward. It is not the cry of the wolf that drove her there. It is only the cry of the world she feared.

Now and then a strange figure comes to the little room, a lone, troubled figure. Out of place and incongruous, the figure will not bother over the appeal of the cradle, but will go straight to the sister in the office and hand over the burden it carries to her. These are the fathers. And the most helpless object in the world is a man with a week-old baby in his arms, trying to find out what it wants. They rarely want to give up all claim to the babies, the fathers. It is only because the mother is dead, or has run away from home, that they come to the Foundlings' at all. All they want is for some one to take the weak, fumbling, crying blind kitten bundle out of their arms and care for it, so they can go to work.

But most of the mothers are of that other great class, the "unwedded," as the sisters call them.

When a woman walks into the little room and lays a child in the cradle without a tear or the least hesitancy and goes hurriedly away the sister smiles and shakes her head.

"That was not the mother. A mother always lingers. Sometimes when they stay too long and the struggle is a hard one we talk with them. The great trouble to an unmarried girl with a child is that she cannot obtain employment, and the baby is too young to be left. So, if they are there staring happily around her. She held out a five-dollar bill.

"I would to get my baby out," she explained. "Two mont I leave him by you. Now I get money and pay for him, and get him back."

Could Bring Him Back.

Gently and tenderly the sister told her it was too late to get her boy back, that she had left it for good, and no money could bring him back to her. The big, round, childish eyes brimmed with tears; she sank down on one of the settees, and poured out in broken, stumbling English her story on the sister's shoulder. She was a young Hungarian girl, who had been betrothed in the old country when she was 14. She had come to America alone. He was to follow soon, and they would work hard and save and be married, sure, he promised they would be married before the baby should come. But he never came. And after the baby was born, she must go to work right away quick, so a girl told her, another girl, who had left her baby in the handy little white cradle, too, of the big building on Sixty-eighth street, where you could leave a baby, and she had brought her baby boy and left it.

But now Julius was good again, and he had come over and married her, and she wanted back her baby. And sobbing hysterically, she went out of the low door, carrying back to Julius the news that it was too late.

Sometimes, years afterward, a mother will return, seeking trace of the child whom she deserted. She may have married happily, and be an honored, loved wife and mother, but in spite of all there will ring in her ears the last cry of the baby she forsaken, and the memory of the little, frail hands that clung to her, and she back to the little door under the ivy to seek her nameless foundling. But the answer is always the same. "It is too late. Some other woman has taken the waif to her hungry breast, and mothered it and named it, and the little white cradle is as barren of hope to the real mother as though it were a little narrow, unmarked grave.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Look to the winter quarter for the poultry if you want winter layers.

The farm without its apple tree is a reproach to any farmer.

After the long, hard day's work the horse is entitled to a good clean, soft, dry bed. Does he get it?

The pure, clean water pail is a large factor in successful dairying and stock raising.

Water the milk by all means. Be sure the water is pure and that it is introduced into the milk through the cow.

Quick, nervous moves among the hens scare them and tend to make them wild.

Cheap salt should never be used in butter, as it contains impurities which are apt to injure the flavor.

The man who plants a tree is wise, but the man who plants an apple tree is doubly wise, and thrice blessed.

Arrange it so that the cattle can have free access to salt, as it will then be eaten in smaller quantities at a time as they need it.

Fall work is necessarily heavy, but have a care that you do not tax the muscles to the point where recuperation is difficult.

It is said that the new rate law is working to the advantage of California fruit growers, as each road must provide its system of refrigerator cars.

The cause of mottles in butter has been attributed to various conditions, among them the presence of butter-milk and the uneven distribution of salt.

Corn ground, cob and all, will give better results than when the cob is left out, as more nutriment will be gotten out of the feed, than when pure ground corn is used.

The winter hen needs exercise. Make her work for all the food she gets, and don't forget to see that she has something to take the place of the green food of the summer time.

Some level-headed enthusiasts of the apple has said that what iron is to the metals, and Michel Angelo to the artists, and Shakespeare to the poets, the apple is to the fruits.

Name the farm. Of course! Why not? Let some striking feature of the farm suggest the title. In some sections of the fruit belt of Michigan one will find that the farms have not only been named, but these names have been tastefully lettered upon signboards and placed in the front yard, so that the passer-by may read as he runs.

Ever had a shoe that pinched and nagged you until your nerves were all on edge, and you were unfit for physical or mental work? And did it ever occur to you that that chafing collar that presses on the windpipe, that bit that is drawn up too tight in the mouth, that illy-shod hoof making painful almost every step, may make the horse feel the same way. The comfortable, well-fitted horse makes the best worker.

While butter is abundant and prices low is a good time to put up some for winter use. Here is the French method of treatment: After working out all the water, the butter is slowly heated to the boiling point; then cooked 30 minutes. After cooling a little the scum is skimmed from the top, and the butter is poured into a dry, sweet, clean jar. When the jar is full sprinkle the butter with salt, seal up the jar with paper and paste, and store it away from the fire. If the butter is sweet and good in the beginning, it will not become strong, or lose its yellow color, though kept until warm weather.

According to the report of her bureau of labor statistics, Missouri has made great strides in horticulture during the past year, her nursery products selling for $629,577. Nursery stock proper weighed 4,300,000 pounds; value, $473,093; cut flowers, 195,718 pounds; value, $156,574. In cut flowers, Cass county led the others 113 pounds, having shipped out 110,000 pounds. St. Louis county is credited with 18,687 pounds, Jackson with 18,537 pounds, and Buchanan with 15,310 pounds. In nursery stock Pike county took the lead with 1,711,086 pounds. Franklin comes next with 556,349 pounds, and St. Louis third with 405,628 pounds. Hilby Jasper county placed on the market 257,480 pounds.

The practical training in farming methods which the boys receive on the farm should be supplemented by a course at some good agricultural college.

Learn something about the science of horseshoeing so that you will know when your horses are properly shod. Many a good horse gives poor service because poorly shod.

University experiment station have demonstrated that the manuring of meadow land pays, whether stable manure or commercial fertilizer is used, although the former gave the best results, and the top dressing of stable manure left the soil in better condition agriculturally than the dressings of commercial fertilizer.

By growing leguminous crops nitrogen can be restored to the soil, but when potash and phosphorus are needed it is the common practice to supply them by means of the commercial fertilizer. However, there is a theory gaining favor that by the proper rotation of crops and the changing of the pasture from one part of the farm to the other the phosphorus and potash can be maintained.

Mediaeval Spain, as she is called so often, is not so far behind the rest of the world when it comes to agriculture. There, as in America, they have learned the value of agriculture, and recently a gigantic siphon has been completed by which the waters of the Aragon and Catalonia irrigation canal are carried across the valleys of the Sosa and Ribabona, making fertile more than 247,000 acres of land. The siphon consists of two main tubes, five-eighths of a mile long and 12 feet 5 inches in diameter, lined with steel plates three millimeters thick, bound with iron hoops and encased in concrete. These tubes have a capacity of 7,700 gallons per second.

One of the most significant signs of the times is the rise of agricultural industries and the awakening of general interest in rural subjects. This and the eagerness with which the universities and colleges are seeking solutions of agricultural problems is turning the attention of students in the direction of agriculture. There is a danger here to which Prof. L. H. Bailey calls attention when he says that "the student who enters this field will most assuredly not succeed unless he has good talents and efficient training, and properly estimates the problem. But it is evident," the professor goes on to say, "not only that an educated man can succeed in agricultural arts, but that in time this type of man will be the only one who can hope for the best results."

The Speculative Farmer. Does he exist? He certainly does if the reports are true that "bucket shops" and "commission rooms" are being established in the larger villages and towns of the west, for such places would not be opened up if there were not farmer patrons to keep them running. But one thing is certain, the "speculative farmer" is not the "progressive farmer." The latter trusts to skill gained by experience and scientific study, and to hard work, to make money, while the former takes to the get-rich-quick road which ends inevitably in the loss of farm and stock and self-respect. Here is the picture as the correspondent of the World's Work has seen it:

"When in his slack time a farmer visits the village to meet his neighbors and talk over family doings and crop returns, he sees a newly-opened 'office,' with spacious entrance, double doors, and a plate-glass window. He stops and looks. Within he hears, 'Wheat 82 1/2 ... 83 1/4 ... 84 1/2.' He enters, and is greeted by the neighbor seated in a comfortable leather chair. The place begins to fascinate him; its smokeroom and fresh cigar are seductive baits. He feels good, and finds himself at home among neighbors. The blackboard and its columns of changing figures are entertaining; his neighbor tells him of a neat turn he made; and as he watches the fluctuations in wheat, oats and corn he thinks, 'What's the harm in taking a try myself?'

"He buys wheat; wheat rises two points and he sells. From that hour the man is changed. His spirits are light that night, and as he sits at the family fireside he takes out an extra cigar and smokes with the enjoyment of a man who feels that the days of 'easy money' have come. The drudgery of farm life seems a huge mistake; too slow for one who can hire help and pay them out of the easy profits of the trading-room. Yet his thoughts find no expression that his wife may share his anticipations. All his life she has been his safe counsellor; but this little venture is his own, and he glows over it.

When the telephone rings he dare not let his wife answer it. The message is, 'Send down $500 to sustain your margins. Wheat is off two points.' He lies to his family. The farm must carry a mortgage at last.

"Months pass; the interest is not paid; the foreclosure notice is in the weekly paper. Six months more, and the family look for the last time, broken-hearted, on the old home. As they stop to gaze back at it, he wonders why such a fate should overtake him when the speculators of the 'exchange' and the 'street' heap up wealth by the same process. He does not know of the unremembered tens of thousands whose ruin, like his, has been courted in listening to 'Wheat 82 1/2 ... 83 1/4 ... 84 1/2.'"

And perhaps he realizes still less that the real ruin occurred when his rugged character gave way to the seduction of "easy money."

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

A HANDY WAGON BOX.

Easily Constructed and Can Be Used for Variety of Hauling.

This homemade wagon box may be constructed with little labor and expense and is very useful for a variety of hauling. For the sides I used two timbers 1 1/2 x 8 inches by 12 feet long of hard pine. For the floor I used six pieces of No. 1 sheeting each 3 inches for the top of the rack, each 3 inches wide. For the floor ordinary hard pine flooring was used. For stays at the side I used 2 x 3 inch strips. The front end gate was made solid, as shown in corner left of cut, but the back gate was made in two pieces, either one of which could be left out.

Sides and Ends of Wagon Box.

This is a fine rack, says the Farm and Home, for hauling wood, hogs, hay, fodder or corn. For ordinary purposes the slatted sides can be turned down, but when loose stuff like ear corn or fodder is hauled the sides can be raised. The material for this box costs $10.

USE ROAD DRAG OFTEN.

Use Will Put Road in First-Class Condition.

The King road drag does first-class work. Our road was in such a bad shape that it was almost impossible to travel, says a Minnesota farmer in Farm and Home. I worked on it one and one-half days and it put the road in pretty good shape, a distance of four miles, with that amount of labor. If I put in another day and a half the road will be in fine condition.

I think that one man, four horses and the King drag will do just as much and as good work or more, than five men and some other graders. The King drag should be weighted down with the driver and 200 pounds besides, the horses hitched ahead. If all the farmers would own one of the King drags and use the machine right after a rainfall we could soon have good roads.

Dead Leaves.

Dead leaves are of great value for fertilizing purposes in the garden and they are also good to keep out frost in the winter. For banking around a building to keep out the cold nothing is better. They are useful for a covering for vegetables stored in the cellar or buried out of doors. Sweet potatoes can be kept in leaves. They can be used as a covering for the flower beds in the fall to protect them from freezing. They are useful for protection to the strawberry bed and any other plants that are in one place for more than one season. They are good to use as mulching material instead of straw or refuse. They make fine stable bedding in the winter and are in good condition as manure for the garden by spring. Dry leaves make good litter for the poultry house. Grain can be scattered in the leaves and the chickens have to scratch for it.

Intensive Agriculture.

The possibilities of intensive agriculture are illustrated in the pot cultures, where all the conditions of irrigation, drainage and fertilization are under control. It is declared by Prof. Cyril G. Hopkins that three times as large crops are grown in pots as in the open field, and that when pot culture of plants is to be used for comparing field work it is fair to expect from the fields only one-third as great yields as are obtained from the pots. This shows that the yield of the earth may be increased at least three times beyond what it is now. Under such a system of agriculture, the world would support three times its present population, even if the present population were all it could support under existing conditions.

Increasing Soil Capacity.

The population of the United States was about 5,308,000 in 1890, while in 1900 it was 76,303,000. At the beginning of last century there were 6.6 people in every square mile of the territory that composed the then republic. At the close of the century there were 25.6 in every square mile of the country. As all know, most of the good land has been brought under cultivation. It now remains to bring the arid lands under cultivation and to improve the cultivation of the good lands. The process of robbing the soil is being gradually stopped, as intelligence increases, but the robbed lands must now be brought back to their first productiveness.

Some few years ago a few entomologists were quite hopeful that insects like grasshoppers and chinch bugs might be killed at wholesale by scattering the germs of a disease among them. The plan seems to have been a failure.

The Pope and Spain

TROUBLE SAID TO BE BREWING BETWEEN THE TWO.

Unless Reduction in Clerical Budget Is Obtained from Vatican Rupture Is Likely to Take Place.

The struggle which the vatican has been carrying on with France has resulted in many of the exiled orders taking refuge in Spain and this has created a condition of affairs there that has brought the question of the relations of the vatican to the church in Spain to a climax, so that there seems to be no doubt that, unless the present government of Spain can succeed in inducing the vatican to accept a reduction of some $200,000 in the clerical budget and acknowledge the regularity of the civil marriage, a rupture will take place between Madrid and Rome which may even lead to the denunciation of the Concordat of 1851. In the meantime, the cardinal primate of Spain, Mgr. Sancha, archbishop of Toledo, is doing his best to effect an understanding by reminding the government of the obligations for moral support both monarchy and dynasty are under, and seeking to impress upon the Roman curia the necessity of making certain concessions toward the liberal movement in Spain.

Monsignor Sancha, Cardinal Primate of Spain.

The problem to be solved is really more of a financial and a social than a religious one. The financial side is aggravated from three sources. The money which the government pays outright to the clergy, the expense to the country at large of the thousands of monks and friars who have established themselves after being driven out of France, and founded schools and colleges for both sexes; and the immense amount of treasure which the vatican annually takes out of the country—however high may be the exchange from paper money into gold, in gold the vatican is paid, and the tithe which it gathers from all sources in Spain are said to represent annually some $9,000,000.

The state spends annually for the church some 41,000,000 pesetas, or $8,200,000. According to the latest statistics, the total number of religious communities throughout the country is 3,115, containing 50,933 members. Of these, 2,586 communities are for women, with 40,188 members, and 529 for men, with 10,745 members. The number of those which sought and obtained registration by the government was 2,611, the registration being of a permanent and definite character in the case of 1,201, and of a provisional kind for 1,410. Registration was temporarily withheld in the case of 150, pending further examination of their titles and description. Of the 354 which remain, the greater part are orders of the Concordat and exempt from registration.

Of the 41,000,000 pesetas paid by the state to the church, about $6,000,000 is devoted to the payment of income; $750,000 to building, maintenance, and repair of churches; $225,000 is destined for religious seminaries; and some $25,000 is allotted to religious congregations, cloistered nuns, and others. The sum of a little over $1,000,000 is divided among the higher clergy, leaving less than $1,000,000 for the ordinary priesthood. As the latter must number considerably over 20,000, the average income of the secular priest cannot be more than $50.

Nor does there seem to be much more margin for economy in the salaries paid to the superior clergy. There are nine archbishops, whose incomes range from $8,000 to $5,500; there are 51 bishops who receive from $5,500 to $2,000; there are 50 deans and 500 canons, whose average yearly income is less than $1,500. But even out of this poverty the Spanish church contrived to donate to the government last year $750,000. Meanwhile, the native orders and their French guests barely make a living; the village curate starves; the towers of Cuenca Cathedral crumble and fall for the want of timely repairs; and the country, which has so long regarded such matters with indifference, is beginning, especially the liberal, progressive part of it, to be disgusted with the whole question of religious dominance.

A Wonderful Tunnel

BORE UNDER RIVER AT NEW YORK MARVEL OF SKILL.

Successful Completion of Gigantic Task That Has Taxed the Ingenuity of the Best Engineers.

The railroad tunnel which has just been completed under the North river from New York city to Weehawken, N. J., is a marvel of ingenuity and skill, for it was found when the two bores made from opposite ends approached within 125 feet of each other that they were only one-eighth of an inch out of alignment and only three-quarters of an inch out of grade, which, considering the size and the length of the tunnel, is something never before heard of.

The completion of this seventy-five million-dollar tunnel now makes it possible for one to walk from New York city into New Jersey, and it will not be long before trains will be speeding through them. It is now five years since the first announcement was made of the project of building the tunnels, and it was only after a strenuous campaign of criticism and opposition that work was begun.

The route of the tunnel is from the Jersey Meadows, beyond Bergen Hill (Weehawken), to Thompson avenue, Long Island City.

According to the plans as announced, every safety appliance and mechanical protection against accidents known to railroad science is to be installed in the tunnels. Electricity will be the only motive power. The current for lights will be entirely separate, as in the New York Subway. The city police will have jurisdiction, and the city health department will have sanitary supervision. The newest ventilating apparatus will be provided. The railroad company has already ordered steel cars, to replace the wooden ones now in use. The new Pullmans, too, will be fireproof.

A special safety feature will be the concrete walkways, or sidewalks, built inside the tubes on a level with the car windows. If there is an accident or a long delay, the passengers will be able to reach these walkways from the car windows or doors. The cables for power, water pipes for protection against fire, and part of the signal wires will be bedded in the concrete beneath these sidewalks.

The construction of the tubes has been designed with a view to safety. Instead of resting upon the river soil, they are supported by iron foundations known as screw piles, such as are used for lighthouse props. In the case of the trolley tunnels built further south, the tubes rest in the soil, for they will not have to bear trains of great weight. The Pennsylvania tunnels, on the other hand, must support 100-ton electric locomotives, and hence it was necessary to provide from foundations extending all the way down to bedrock.

The method of construction has been the same as in the trolley tunnels, and in the East river section of the Subway. As the shields are pushed forward through the soil, or through an occasional uprising ledge of rock, cast iron rings are knitted together, forming the links of the tubes. The lining inside the cast iron is to be of concrete, a part of which will be the walkways already described.

Much has been told of the Manhattan terminal. It has been decided that this is to be a railroad station from top to bottom, with only such subsidiary departments as are necessary to the comforts of railroad passengers. There will be restaurants and arcades of small shops near the waiting room, 300 feet long, but there will be no theater or hotel or beer garden despite frequently published rumors. To the various train platforms, below ground, the passengers will descend in elevators, and at the top of each elevator shaft will be electric signs showing what trains are due or waiting. In short, there is to be no convenience lacking, and the plans seem to provide for roominess and comfort enough to supply the demands of the future New York, however fast the population increases.

Quite Important Side Issue.

The British government gets an income of $25,000,000 from the railways, river boats and forests of India.

RUN DOWN FROM GRIP

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Have Cured This Form of Debility in Hundreds of Cases.

"Four years ago," says Mrs. F. Morrison, of No. 1923 Carson street, South Side, Pittsburgh, Pa., "I took a cold which turned into the grip. This trouble left me all run down. I was thin, had backache much of the time, had no appetite, my stomach was out of order and I felt nervous and unstrung."

"While I had the grip I had a doctor, but I really suffered more from the condition in which the influenza left me than I did from the disease itself. I felt generally wretched and miserable and the least exposure to cold would make me worse. I couldn't seem to get any better until I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I very quickly noticed a benefit after I began taking them and they restored me to good health and strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderfully good medicine. Thanks to them I am now in fine health and have had no return of my former trouble. I recommend the pills to everyone who is ailing and take every opportunity to let people know how good they are."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Morrison because they actually make good, red blood. When the blood is red and healthy there can be no debility. The relation between the blood and nervous system is such that the pills have a very decided action upon the nerves and they have cured many severe nervous disorders, such as partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia and St. Vitus' dance, that have not yielded to ordinary treatment. Their double action, on the blood and on the nerves, makes them an ideal tonic.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or they will be sent by mail postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y.

Treasures for the Louvre.

Attention is called by the Travelers' Gazette to recent acquisitions by the Louvre, notably of a life size bust in chalk, primitively colored, of the hermit king of the eighteenth dynasty, Akhoumalon, or Amenophis IV., one of the strangest figures in the long line of the Pharaohs. The bust is a remarkably fine specimen of the art of the period, and is well preserved. Besides this, there are four sepulchral urns in blue porcelain from the tomb of Rameses II. In these urns was found, besides funeral linen, certain organic matter, which is being chemically examined.

Latest Fad in "Society."

The latest fad in certain eastern society circles is to be glum and cross. One phase of this more than usually absurd affectation takes the form of ignoring letters of introduction and this lack of consideration has roused family feuds in several cases. One wealthy young Italian, who is a member of one of the best Roman families, went to Newport this summer with many letters from prominent persons. But he has found it impossible to present them. "It is foolish to expect anything from social leaders these days and the stranger who asks to be received by letter has a hard time of it," said a young man whose letter to a society matron was ignored.

Kept Tax Receipts Long.

Charles King, of East Liberty, a suburb of Pittsburgh, is what might be termed a careful man. He has been a voter in the East Liberty district since 1857 and when asked on the last registration day if he had a tax receipt he pulled from a pocket tax receipts for the last 41 years. When asked by the registrar if he had any more he replied that if he went down deep into his "strong box" at home he might possibly find a few dating long back before the oldest member of the board was born. Mr. King is now 78 years old, having been born in Baltimore in 1828, removing to East Liberty in 1857. His first presidential vote was cast for John C. Fremont and his last for Theodore Roosevelt. He is a staunch Republican and as a contractor and brick manufacturer for half a century has contributed much to the up-building and growth of East Liberty.

NO DAWDLING.

A Man of 70 After Finding Coffee Hurt Him, Stopped Short.

When a man has lived to be 70 years old with a 40-year-old habit grown to him like a knot on a tree, chances are he'll stick to the habit till he dies.

But occasionally the spirit of youth and determination remains in some men to the last day of their lives. When such men do find any habit of life has been doing them harm, they surprise the Oslerites by a degree of will power that is supposed to belong to men under 40 only.

"I had been a user of coffee until three years ago—a period of 40 years—and am now 70," writes a N. Dak. man. "I was extremely nervous and debilitated, and saw plainly that I must make a change."

"I am thankful to say I had the nerve to quit coffee at once and take on Postum without any dawdling, and experienced no ill effects. On the contrary, I commenced to gain, losing my nervousness within two months, also gaining strength and health otherwise."

"For a man of my age, I am very well and hearty. I sometimes meet persons who have not made their Postum right and don't like it. But I tell them to boil it long enough, and call their attention to my looks now, and before I used it, that seems convincing."

"Now, when I have writing to do, or long columns of figures to cast up, I feel equal to it and can get through my work without the fagged out feeling of old." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

What the Party Stands For.

Below is published in full the resolutions adopted by the democratic delegate district convention at Ada October 5th:

We the democrats of the 87th constitutional delegate district in the Indian Territory in convention assembled for the purpose of nominating a delegate for the constitutional convention for the new state of Oklahoma, wish:

1. To express our firm and lasting faith in the honesty, intelligence and wisdom of the people and our firm belief that they should have a right to decide all matters and elect all officers by a direct vote of the people to the end that they may get relief from the burdens and abuses which have been heaped upon them in the past when they were denied the right of free government to free men. We advocate, therefore, the initiative and referendum and the right to recall, so that the people may settle all questions of a public or a local nature as they may deem best and so that an official when elected to represent the people may be recalled from office at any time by a majority of the people, should he fail to represent the will of the people or prove untrue to the trust imposed in him.
2. We demand an ironclad anti-trust provision, also a corporation commission elected by the people, such commission to be empowered to exercise all necessary supervision of corporations including railroads, to see that the corporation charters are obeyed to the letter and rebates and discriminations do not occur without just punishment; to compel by the aid of courts strict obedience to the laws enacted for the protection of patrons, employees and honest competition.
3. Our constitution should forbid any railroads or other corporations to do more than require an easement of any lands and then only on such lands as are necessary to furnish right-of-way, station grounds or for shops or for some other necessary department of the corporation, and should a corporation abandon its legitimate business or have its charter forfeited then the use and occupancy of such land shall revert to the original grantor, his heirs or assigns.
4. We favor a provision of the constitution providing for factory and mine inspectors, said inspectors to be men who know from actual experience or training who to ascertain and correct abuses so prevalent in factory and mine.
5. We are opposed to the youth of our land being prematurely employed in the mines and factories. There should be a constitutional act protecting the boys and girls of the state in that respect.
6. We believe that labor should be respected in its demand that eight hours shall constitute a day's work in all underground works and other works carried on by the state, county or municipal government.
7. We favor establishing and maintaining for as long a period each year a free school system: the state should manufacture and furnish free, or at cost, uniform school books, by this means curbing the school book trust.
8. We favor a bonded school fund commission elected by the people, so that the state school fund is not in any way misappropriated. We favor the retention of all the public lands now owned by the state, unless directed sold by a vote of the people.

9. We are opposed to the coal lands of the state falling into the hands of private monopolies and favor a system by which the coal lands may be acquired by the state for the benefit of the public school fund, and the general public who are consumers of coal, to the end that the Indians may receive just and fair compensation for their property and the public protected from extortion and injustice. Should the state own the coal lands we advocate dealing separately with the surface, that more homes may be given the bona fide settlers of the state.

10. We demand that no public officer or candidate for any office within the state or from any portion of it shall use passes, or free transportation upon any railroad or other public service corporation and that it shall be declared a felony to accept same.

11. We believe the constitutional convention should memorialize congress to remove all the restrictions from the lands of the tribal citizens, except the homestead of fullbloods. That a just and reasonable limitation be placed upon the amount of said land to be purchased by a person, to the end that this land may become the home of the actual farmer and settler. We are opposed to this land falling into the hands of the corporation speculator and grafter.

12. We favor having incorporated into our state structure an alien land law.

13. We favor a state wide road system, to be maintained by a general road tax and we favor the working of the convicts on the public roads and the transfer of all able-bodied convicts from northern prisons to be employed on public roads where most needed.

14. We advocate a provision levying a one per centum tax on earnings of all corporations with intangible assets. We also advocate taxing all intangible assets of corporations.

15. We favor uniform and maximum tax rate.

16. We declare unalterable opposition to all trusts, combinations and monopolies which seek to control the necessities of life and thereby extort from the people an unjust and unfair price and we denounce all persons or parties, who favor such, as being enemies to the people and to the best interests of the country, and brand any attempt which would encourage any monopoly as treachery to the people and country and as taking the taxing power from the government and placing it in the power of private parties or corporations to tax the people at their own will or selfish interests may dictate, and demand that the people be properly safeguarded in the constitution.

17. We favor proper and effective laws which will prevent bribery and corruption and convict those who shall either give or take bribes.

18. We favor the election of all officers by direct vote of the people and favor an amendment to the constitution of the United States providing for the election of United senators by direct vote of the people, and until the constitution is so amended we demand the nomination of the United States senators by direct vote of the people and that the state legislatures be required to elect senators so nominated.

19. We demand that it be made an offense punishable by imprisonment for a corporation to contribute to a campaign fund, also a provision demanding publicity of campaign contributions.

20. We favor a clause in the constitution which will give the people the right to amend the constitution at any time by direct vote.

21. We favor that the rate of interest in the new state may be made: legal rate at 8 per cent and contract rate 10 per cent, and that a reasonable homestead and exemption law be passed.

22. We favor a proper and effective limitation on creation of public indebtedness unless submitted to a vote of the people.

23. We demand separate schools, separate coaches and separate waiting rooms for the negroes, but demand that no discrimination be made in the quality of accommodations and that ample provisions be made for all.

24. We demand a constitution framed in accordance with the Jeffersonian idea, with equal rights to all and special privileges to none and with such safeguards of legislation as shall insure protection to the rights of the people.

25. We favor the nomination of all officers by primaries.

26. In order to settle the prohibition question at once and thus divorce it from the politics of the state, we favor the submission to the people of a separate article which shall become a part of the constitution, if ratified by a majority of the people voting therefor.

27. We favor a just and reasonable fellow servants law which shall fully protect all employees in whatsoever capacity engaged.

28. We are opposed to government by injunctions whereby the rights of the people are restricted and transferred arbitrarily under the hands of unfriendly judges.

29. We favor a state agricultural department, agricultural schools and experimental stations.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.
